Editorial Footnote

SATO's CSR is the steady and unyielding determination to contribute to society through our main business. We see the tree rings of our cover as a good illustration of the steady corporate activities by which SATO advances step by step. We value everyone's comments, and will make them all contribute in our building of a great, green and living tree.

This year is the fourth in which we have produced a CSR report, and we have sought to keep our readers in mind by making it easy to read and understand. We wonder what your reaction will be. We would value any comments and opinions you might have on this CSR report and on SATO's activities.
